urrounded By Spring Flowers an a Gorgeous Company Miss Margo ret Finch Becomes a Bride.

dence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Bettie M. Finch, corner of Third and Sutton streets, occurred the marriage of Miss Margaret, elder daughter and eldest child of the household, to Dr. Archibald Church of Chicago.

The cerem ony, performed by Rev. D. D. Chapin, Rector of the Church of the Nativity, was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends of the fair bride from this city and county, augmented by several from other points.

The elegant home was handsomely decorated for the occasion. Flowers and tropical plants of rare and exquisite beauty were charmingly arranged throughout the spacious parlors, forming a scene seldon surpassed in the art of the designer Added to this artificial loveliness was Nature's most ornate creation, beautiful women and gallant men, the chivalry of the garden spot of Kentucky—and of the personality of the assemblage no more need be said.

The bride was beautiful in an exquis toilet of pure white, and it was the unani ous verdict that a handso never graced the hymenal altar.

The bride herself needs no introduc ion. She is descended from an honored and distinguished lineage. Her relation ship in this county is very extensive, and comprises households where wealth honor and integrity have reigned for generations. She is the eldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Finch. Her father was the late Cashier of Mitchell, Finch & Co.'s Bank of this city, whose lamentable death occurred something over a year ago. Possessed of natural gifts of intellect of a high order, finely educated by both study and THE L. and N. yards are now lighted by electricity. An arc light has been placed across the street from the Old Gold Flour Mill, which makes traveling and varied. She has always been ex-through the yards at light comparatively ceedingly popular in social circles and all who knew her, old and young, rich and poor, were ever ready to do homage to her superior talents. ine—Charley Says II's Not.

THE LEDGER yesterday printed an account of the flight of Alex. D. Paris, Charley Ryan's office boy at Cincinnati, with 8895 of that genuleman's "long green," obtained from the Market National Bank on a forged cheek.

The fact that the boy has been hear! from is a presty sure sign that he will land in the hands of the police, and Mr. Ryan now as giving most of his attention to the 8625 cheek that was so skilfully passed at the bank.

Mr. Ryan, of course, holds that he should not be responsible for the forged cheek, while the bank officials hold that Mr. Ryan had signed the check in sadvance, and young Paris had gotten hold of it. This is the position of Vice-President Casper Rive, who said that in due time the bank would bring suit against Mr. Ryan for that amount.

The sum drawn out overdrew Mr. Ryan's account about $450, and Mr. Ryan facetiously remarks that if he had gone to the bank for a loan himself he would probably have had quite a talk before getting $450 without any security, while his office boy seemed to have unlimited credit.

Mr. Ryan's friends are consoling him with the remark that it must be very satisfactory to "stand is" with a bank. Mr. Ryan, however, does not think so, and one of his arguments against being responsible will be that in allowing his account to be overfrawn as the orders were decisis were negligent, as overdrawn as
